

PLAYING TOGETHER AS A FAMILY

Family life can feel busy and full of routines, but when parents and children play together, something special happens: play becomes a shared space for laugh, communication and connection. This section is full of quick, easy play ideas that fit into real family life. Because family play is more than fun—it's a simple way to build lifelong emotional strength.

FAMILY GRATITUDE JAR

Each day, write or draw one thing you're grateful for and put it in a jar. Read them all together at the end of the week.

Why it helps

Builds positive connections and shared meaning.

Parent tip

Let your child decorate the jar.

KITCHEN BAND

Use pots, spoons, and cups to create a family rhythm band.

Why it helps

Encourages cooperation, rhythm, and joy.

Parent tip

Let your child lead the tempo.

SHADOW ON THE WALL

Using a flashlight or a phone light in a dimmed room, take turns using your hands or small toys to create shapes on the wall (e.g., create a bird shadow and flap your arms while tweeting, or shape a snake with your hands & hiss).

Why it helps

Sparks imagination and creates a calm, intimate environment for communication.

Parent tip

Ask "What does that shape look like to you?" and build a story around it.

FAMILY HIGH-FIVE

Work together to invent a unique "secret" family high-five or handshake involving 3-4 different moves.

Why it helps

Creates a sense of belonging and a unique "family identity".

Parent tip

Use this handshake whenever you reunite after school or work to quickly reconnect.

HUMAN MIRROR CHALLENGE

Draw a few simple "stick figures" on small pieces of paper, each in a different pose (one leg up, arms crossed, hands on the head, etc.). The adult picks a card, the kid should quickly mirror the pose shown. Then switch roles.

Why it helps

Develops body awareness, balance & coordination as they try to match different positions. It also strengthens attention and observation skills.

Connection tip

Let your child be the "choreographer" and create their own complex stick-figure poses for you to try.

FAMILY DANCE PARTY

Pick a song and dance together. Silly moves encouraged.

Why it helps

Creates shared joy and releases tension.

Parent tip

Let your child choose the songs leading the play.

🕒 5-10 min

Family Play Time

Sit together with one large sheet of paper & some crayons or pencils. Take turns adding something to the same drawing (one detail at a time). There's no plan: the picture grows as you play together. You can turn it into a game by drawing without talking & guessing what the picture is becoming, or talking while drawing and telling a story.

Why it helps

Encourages cooperation, listening, self-expression and shared creativity.

Parent tip

Resist the urge to correct, follow your child's ideas & enjoy the process.

DRAW IT TOGETHER

🕒 5-10 min

Family Play Time

Create a theatre together, for example turning a cardboard box into a stage, or hanging a towel between two chairs. Each family member chooses a small toy (an animal, a car) & makes it perform on stage, singing, dancing, telling jokes, or doing something silly. Take turns being performer & audience.

Why it helps

Builds shared joy, creativity, communication, and confidence, encourages self-expression.

Connection tip

Follow your child's ideas & build on them.
